

STEM Club

LITERACY IN RECEPTION

Students were learning to be “author’s” and looking at what author’s do when they write a story as well as what the “illustrator” does.

They read a book with the teacher and examined parts of the story before they attempted their own story.

Students are learning to make sentences using capital letters and full stops, as well as sentences that flow on in a logical sequence so that the story makes sense.

Then they have to decide on what their picture will look like so that it reflects elements of their story.

Pearl is sharing her story about a horse called Sparkle and Lila is sharing her story about Precious the dog.

